Vitex agnus castus leaf – it is a short shrub with lime blossom and big narrow leaves, is known for its healing properties since ancient times. This plant contains alkaloids, tannins, flavonoids, vitamins and microelements, essential oils. Vitex agnus castus leaf has hormone like effect, similar to progesterone. It stimulates secretion of sex hormones, those are necessary for the normal functioning of the female reproductive system. Vitex agnus castus is used in case of some gynaecological and endocrine disorders, it relieves the symptoms of menopause and premenstrual syndromes.

Tea catechins (epigallo catechin gallate, epicatechin, catechin gallates) deactivate the oxidants, before they had managed to damage cells. They reduce the number and size of tumors, block the growth and division of cells and inhibit the metastatic processes. They provide prophylaxis of pathological states of the female reproductive system.

Brassica campestris leaf provides preservation of the female reproductive system health, normalizes metabolism of female sex hormones – estrogens, blocks carcinogenic effect of their metabolism, which causes the growth of the hormone dependent tumor cells in the uterus, ovaries, mammary gland, thyroid and other organs.

Isoflavones (genistein, daidzein) are the phytoestrogens, they are a plant analogue of female sex hormones, which are able to prevent age-related hormonal disorders. They provide prophylaxis of tumor diseases of hormone dependent tissues of female organism, reduce symptoms of post-menopausal period and improve general health state of women.

Resveratrol is one of the most powerful and famous antioxidants. It blocks neoplasms and also the growth of the cancer cells. It inhibits the aging process of body and increases its endurance.
